

Tips for motorcycle safety

Riding a motorbike is even more dangerous than driving a car, as you have less outer protection and are much less visible to other road users. Whereas windy or rainy conditions provide only a slight hindrance to car users, bikers can be seriously affected and put themselves in a lot of danger by going out on the road in such circumstances. Here are five tips that motorbike users can take note of to ensure they are as safe as possible when out on the road.

1. Anticipate what is happening around you. Often, reacting is not good enough, you need to be proactive when out on the road and be fully aware of what is happening and what could happen around you. It is very easy to 'switch off' when out on the road, especially if there are no apparent dangers ahead, but you should always expect the unexpected and be ready for it.
2. Watch your speed. The speed limit is there for a reason, and that is because it is deemed to be the fastest speed that a vehicle can reach without becoming a danger to others. As a motorbike rider, you already act as a hazard to other road users due to your decreased visibility, so being extra-careful is important.
3. Position yourself correctly. As already stated, it is quite difficult for car users to see bikers all the time so positioning yourself correctly is very important and will improve your safety and the safety of others. You should make sure you stick to the middle of the road so you are fully visible, and don't sneak along at the side of the road, because cars might not take as much caution if they cannot see you.
4. Take care when overtaking. Overtaking is much easier in a bike because of their size, yet it can still be quite dangerous. You should make the drivers behind and in front of you fully aware of what you plan to do by indicating correctly, and you should follow the Highway Code by not overtaking around a corner or near a junction.
5. Make sure you can be seen! Whether this involves you using your lights correctly, or wearing luminous clothing, just ensure that you can be seen fully by other road-users. Even in good light, extra visibility cannot go amiss, so consider it.
